PETER AND THE WOLF . . . . . Prokofiev

This symphonic fairy tale of the wicked wolf and a young hero, written for children, appeals equally to sophisticated adults.

Prokofiev completed the work in 1936 and four years later "Peter and the Wolf" was choreographed by Adolph Bolm for the Ballet Theatre. It was performed by them for the first time during their first season in 1940.

Tonight's presentation is a modernized version choreographed by Lyn Campbell.

Taped excerpts are from the Philadelphia Orchestra, narrated by Cyril Ritchard and the New York Philharmonic - Leonard Bernstein.
